

Neighborhood Fact Sheet

Lower Manhattan

Both the historical significance and continued growth of New York City are embodied in the streets of Lower Manhattan, the area south of Chambers Street. Historical landmarks such as the New York Stock Exchange and Federal Hall neighbor modern structures like One World Trade Center, which, at 1,776 feet, soars above all the other buildings in NYC. Other new developments include Brookfield Place, for shopping and dining, and the Oculus, the centerpiece of the WTC Transportation Hub, designed by Santiago Calatrava. Waterfront attractions include South Street Seaport, a collection of historical and new buildings; Hudson River Park, a riverside oasis for all ages; and Battery Park, where ferries depart for harbor tours, Staten Island, the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island and Governors Island.
